

Top 10 Beaches In Cayman Island For 2026

Everyone knows about Seven Mile Beach. It's stunning, iconic, and absolutely worth a visit. But here at Yellow Submarine, we believe the real magic of Grand Cayman is found beneath the surface both literally and figuratively.

In 2026, more travelers are looking to escape the tourist trail and uncover the hidden sides of the destinations they visit. That's why we've put together this curated list of 10 off the radar beaches that go beyond the brochure and offer something unique: peace, raw nature, and a truly local vibe. If you're looking for quiet shores, amazing snorkeling, and beaches only the locals whisper about, this guide is for you.

1. Spotts Beach A Turtle Haven at Sunrise

Located on the island's southern coast, Spotts Beach is a local favorite for one big reason: sea turtles. Come early, and you may swim alongside them as they graze on the seagrass just offshore. Shaded picnic areas and calm surf make it ideal for a relaxed morning snorkel. Don't forget your camera you'll want to capture the magic.

2. Colliers Beach Peaceful East End Escape

On the sleepy East End, Colliers Beach feels like a world away from the busy west side. With shallow waters, picnic pavilions, and few visitors, it's perfect for couples, families, or solo travelers seeking quiet time by the sea. The nearby reef is teeming with marine life bring your fins and mask.

3. Smith's Barcadere (Smith Cove) George Town's Hidden Gem

Just minutes from the capital, Smith Cove is carved out of limestone and framed by palm trees. Locals swim and snorkel here daily, but many tourists pass it by. It's a perfect mid-day escape or sunset swim spot. At Yellow Submarine, we love recommending this for travelers who want a touch of the familiar without the crowd.

4. Barkers Beach Raw, Remote, and Windswept

Located inside Barkers National Park, this beach is a quiet stretch of sand with zero commercial development. Come here to kiteboard, birdwatch, or simply walk along the coast in complete solitude. No shops, no beach bars just sand, wind, and freedom.

5. Old Man Bay Beach Secluded North Shore Bliss

Along the island's North Side, Old Man Bay offers breezy, wide-open views of the Caribbean. It's perfect for meditation, yoga, or simply sitting and watching the waves. Few visitors venture this far out, so bring a book and stay a while.

6. Lover's Wall Beach East End Romance

Adjacent to a scenic stone wall built for lovers (and photos!), this rugged beach features dramatic surf and windswept cliffs. Though not ideal for swimming, it's one of the most atmospheric spots on the island. Perfect for a romantic moment away from it all.

7. Barefoot Beach Cayman's Wild Side

True to its name, Barefoot Beach is best experienced barefoot. Tucked away on the North Side, it's raw, undeveloped, and wildly beautiful.

You may have to park and walk in, but once you're there, it's just you, the sea, and nature at its purest. Yellow Submarine tip: visit at low tide for best beach access.

8. Cayman Kai Public Beach Local Vibes, No Crowds

Close to the more famous Rum Point but without the crowds, Cayman Kai is a family-friendly, chill spot to swim, sunbathe, or launch a paddleboard. It's also a great place to meet friendly locals or grab a drink at nearby Kaibo Marina.

9. South Sound Mini Beaches Pocket-Sized Escapes

Driving through South Sound, you'll notice small public beach entries many unnamed and rarely visited. These "mini beaches" are perfect for a spontaneous picnic, an ocean dip, or a quiet sunset. No signs, no fuss just peaceful, local charm.

10. Kaibo Beach Dockside Serenity

Located beside the Kaibo Yacht Club, this beach combines soft sand with dockside charm. Calm, shallow waters make it ideal for families, and stingrays are often spotted near the dock. Stay for dinner at Kaibo Upstairs and enjoy local dishes under the stars.

Yellow Submarine Travel Tips for 2026 Explorers

Rent a car : You'll need it to reach these hidden gems.

Bring your own snorkel gear : Some of Cayman's best snorkeling is just offshore.

Use reef-safe sunscreen : Help protect the marine life you came to see.

Download offline maps : Signal can drop in the more remote areas.

Pack snacks and water : Many of these beaches are totally undeveloped.

Final Word from Yellow Submarine
